Montesuma's Well. From the Native American. One of the most pleasing natural curiosities in the territory of Arizona is the pool of water known as Montezuma's well. It is situated fifteen miles northeast of the old abandoned military post known as Camp Verde. It is 250 feet in diameter, and the clear, pure water is about sixty feet below the surface of the surrounding country. Some years ago certain military officers sounded the pool and found that it had a uniform depth of eighty feet of water except in one place, apparently about six feet square, where the sounding line went down about 500 feet without touching TORNEY SINGING.

ACQUITTAL OF POST STEW ARD HAPPELL

Severe Disapproval of the Provost Marshal General.

MILITARY COMMISSIONS

A heavy mail from the Philippines was received at the War Department teday. It included the records of many cases of crimes and misdemeanors tried by military commissions at Manila and esewhere in the archipelago.

One of these cases was that of Henry W. Happell, a civilian employed by the subsistence department as port steward at Manila, his duties involving the purchase in the open market of vegetables and other perishable stores for use on government transports to the average amount of $4,000 per month. He was charged with accepting a bribe, but was acquitted by the commission. Brig. Gen Davis, provost marshal general, disapproved the findings of the ommission as inconsistent with the evi-Davis said that the testimony taken show ed that practically all of the perishable goods purchased by Happell were obtained from the Manila Stevedoring Company, from which the accused accepted $320 during three months.

"It is presumed," said General Davis "that the commission accepted as true the explanation of the manager of said firm to the effect that this money was paid to the accused for services performed to the company and not intended to influence the acts of the accused in purchasing and in-specting produce purchased from that firm. This explanation offered by the manager is inconsistent with the action of the firm in paying this money to the accused under an assumed and fictitious name. In the opinion of the undersigned this act in itself is sufficient proof to show that the firm in giving this money to the accused knew it was doing wrong, and attempted to hide it and cover it up by charging it on the books under an assumed and ficti-tious name. It is regretted that the commission should be induced to believe that an employe of the government could accept money from a firm doing business with the government under the circumstances disclosed by the testimony and not thereby commit a punishable offense. The findings of the commission are disapproved. The accused will be released from custody."

Other Cases. A military commission also acquitted Harold M. Pitt of receiving fifty cases of bacon of the value of $324 from Lieut. Barrows, an officer of the army, well knowing that that officer had no lawful right to sell the goods which were public property of the United States. Gen. Davis disapproved the findings of the commission and administered a severe rebuke to the commission for its action, saying that the process of reasoning followed by the commission would make it impracticable to obtain a conviction in any case, in spite of the positive character of the evidence. The same commission convicted Harry T. Finnick, alias Harry J. Finnic, a civilian, of receiving stolen goods, valued at $65, from Corporal Claude Knepper, Battery L 8d Artillery, well knowing them to have been stolen from the United States. The accused was sentenced to pay to the United States the sum of $1,000 and to be confined at hard labor for the period of one year. The findings and sentence were approved by the provost, Gen. Davis. Three natives, engaged in collecting contributions for the insurgents at Tinambac, met Carlos Benosa, whom they suspected of being friendly to the Americans. They seized and bound him, and conveyed him to the insurgent quarters, and the following day their captive was bound to a heavy rock, and rolled down the slope into San Miguel bay. Pastor Espirito, who devised this means of putting Benosa to death, and ordered his two companions to put it into effect, was sentenced to imprisonment at hard labor for life. The other two natives were sentenced to five years' imprisonment at hard labor. Four natives were tried on a charge of murdering American prisoners, in violation of the laws of war. They were a part of the insurgent guard over two American prisoners, George B. Sullivah, a prisoner, and Private James L. Husketh, Company H, 29th Volunteer Infantry. Their commanding officer, a lieutenant of the insurgents, issued an order, that, when the corporal of the guard, who was marching in front of the prisoners should lift his hat, the insurgents behind the Americans should take it as the signal for the bayonetting of the prisoners, and this brutal program was carried out to the letter. But Gen. Chaffee, in reviewing the case, decided that the natives had no other alternative other than mutinous disobedience, except to carry out the orders of their superior officer, and their sentences of death were disapproved, and the accused set at liberty. The insurgent lieutenant, who ordered the Americans put to death, is now awaiting the execution of the sentence of death. A band of Filipino outlaws attacked and burned the town of Uguis and killed three natives with spears and bolos. Four of them were tried by military tribunal and proven to have been active participants in the burning and killing. Three of them were sentenced to be hanged, but this was commuted by General Chaffee to imprison-ment at hard labor for life. The other native was sentenced to ten years' imprison-ment at hard labor. Sentenced to Be Hanged. Another outlaw band seized Manuel Dantes, suspected of friendliness to the Americans, conveyed him to a newly prepared grave, bound him and shot him dead through the head from behind. One of the band, who was accused of being the individual who fired the shot, admitted the fact, but pleaded that he was acting under the orders of his superior officer. But his plea did not suffice, as it was shown that no superior officer was present, and therefore General Chaffee approved the sentence of death by hanging imposed by the military commission.

Thirteen natives surrounded the house of one Martin Ganancial at Rosales, P. I., and when he failed to make his appearance at his door in answer to their demands the house was set on fire. While Ganancial was escaping from the flames he was seized, taken to an isolated spot and murdered with bolos. Four of the natives, when they were brought to trial, were sentenced to be hung and the remainder were sentenced to thirty years' imprisonment at hard labor. General Chaffee commuted the sentence of the four to imprisonment for life and the sentences of the remainder were mitigated to fifteen years' imprisonment at hard labor.

From the Honolulu Republican. Sixto Lopez, who was permitted by the easy-going government at Washington to reside in the national capital of the country against which many of his fellow citizens were in armed insurrection, and who is now in this city, is quoted by an evening paper as saying: "Had the Americans not interfered the armies of the Filipinos would long before this have driven the Spaniards from the islands and would now be enjoying the blessings of a free and in-dependent republic."

It does not need much effort to puncture this statement of untruth. Every reader knows that when the United States de-clared war against Spain the insurrection in the Philippines was crushed. Asymptotic

The exact particulars of the alleged assault cannot be learned, but it is under-stood that it occurred at the home of Riggs last Saturday night during the progress of a cakewalk. Riggs was badly beaten and cut about the face and head and one of his eyes was torn completely from its nis eyes was torn completely from its socket. He is said to be in a critical condition, It is alleged that in addition to assaulting Riggs the three men badly wrecked his home, rendering it unfit for habitation. State's Attorney Talbott has decided to deny the accused a hearing until the extent of Riggs' injuries are ascertained.

Mr. Hattersly W. Talbott, as executor of the estate of the late Thomas E. Noland, recently reported to the orphans' court that he had sold the farm, which was part of the estate, to Mr. Joseph T. White for $3,100. A few days ago Mr. Alexander Kilgour, as attorney for Mr. White, filed a petition asking that the reported sale be set aside, and yesterday was set for a hearing. It was disclosed that Mr. White agreed to take the property at the price mentioned, but withdrew his offer before it was accepted by Mr. Talbott. The court consequently decided that no sale had been

VIRGINIA POLITICS

Democrats Shy of Accepting Nominations for Office.

FEAR A REPUBLICAN LANDSLIDE

The Convention Has Alienated Many From the Party.

WHAT OLD LEADERS SAY

are having all sorts of trouble in getting men of prominence to stand as candidates for the general assembly. I am very much alarmed as to the success of the state ticket. The people of the entire southwest are in a state of unrest, and unless something is done-and that very soon-the republicans will not only elect the state ticket, but they will also elect their nominees for the house and senate. The people are uneasy some sort of a plan is seriously and materially diminishing the chances of the election of our state ticket this fall. I will not be in the least surprised to see a large republican majority in the next general assembly of Virginia."

This was the statement made on Saturday afternoon by one of the best-known democrats in the state—a man who has been on Nominations Going Begging. "The nominations for the house and senate are going begging in my district," said a member of the constitutional convention, "and it is a pretty good indication that the field has been thoroughly canvassed and the conditions are well known to the men who have been manag-ing the politics in the state for the past twenty-five or thirty years, and you can-not induce any of the old fellows to get in the game, as they can see defeat as in the game, as they can see defeat us far as any man can see anything in politics. The southwest is lost to the democrats, but I can't talk for publication, as I have been for years speaking the language of the tribe, and I might be charged with being sore over the possible defeat of my choice for some of the state offices. But you just keep your eye on the great But you just keep your eye on the great southwest, and don't be surprised if the old-time victories of the readjuster days are repeated. The valley will add to the number of wrecks that will strew the coast after the storm of November has passed." The man who made this last speech is a man who made a speech since the Norfolk convention in which he promised to bury the republican ticket beyond all hope of resurrection at the coming election. It is no secret that the new regime is considerfellows who were content to make a fight at any time for the success of the ticket after it had been nominated in a fair and square fight, whether choice or not. "What can we expect of the boys? Can you blame them? Here we have a campaign for the nomination in which the boys have been accused of being thieves, ballot-box stuffers, forgers and ringsfers whose sole object was to keep a certain control are in a quandary-they have cap-

The republicans in the convention are simply keeping quiet and are allowing the democrats to have full sway, saying they are in such a small minority they can ac-complish nothing, and express the utmost confidence in the ability of the democrats to do more for the republican state ticket than they could ever hope to do. Col. Summers' Views. Col. J. C. Summers of Washington county, speaking of the action of the convention on the suffrage question, said: "The democrats are all right. They won't say whether they will allow the people to vote or not, and the impression is going abroad that they are going to require a property qualification. All these things are helping us. We are in favor of a manhood qualifications; we don't want a dollar to be worth more than a man or ence of the party managers over the outlook, scarcely a day passes in which the extraordinary condition of affairs is not discussed in the hall of the convention in the speeches of the members on the various questions under consideration. Judge Thomas W. Harrison of Frederick, in opposing the proposition to hold quadrennial sessions the other day, made use of the expression that his "people had voted for the convention, but since some of the prop-ositions had been submitted, showing a disposition to tamper with the rights of the people, many of the best men in his county had come to the conclusion that county had come to the conclusion that they had acted without due consideration of the question." Judge Harrison said that he had about come to the conclusion that the convention was about to do a thing that would cause no end of trouble

Already it has been proposed to abolish many offices; it has been recommended that all county courts be abolished, and that salaries be reduced, and a thousand and one things are suggested that will have the effect of driving a great many men from the party and of making them vote against the democratic state ticket or else remain away from the polls. It is a foregone conclusion that if the new constitution is submitted to the people it will be overwhelmingly defeated, hence the growing sentiment and talk among the new regime in favor of proclaiming the work of the convention.

To use the expression of a well-known local leader: "The democrats in Virginia are between the devil and the deep sea."
